LARGE ATTENDANCE AT COURT.

The Strain Murder Case Is Being Tried, With Able Counsel On Both Sides.

The attendance at the May session of court is unusually large this week, called here mainly on account of the trial of George Strain and wife, charged with the killing of Albert Allen, and besides the extra panel of jurors drawn and the numerous witnesses summoned on the case, many interested spectators are present.

The civil list was quickly disposed of for this term, all cases being put over to the September term by agreement of the parties at interest. Judge Hinckley is presiding, with Associate Morgan also on the bench, Associate Aul being absent.

The following motions were disposed of: J. E. Chitester, having complied with all his obligations, was discharged as the guardian of Howard Patterson.

Subpoena in divorce were allowed in the divorce proceedings of May Chapman vs. E. L. Chapman, and Sarah T. Barnett vs. Mervin E. Barnett.

The court issued an order permitting A. C. Brown, the master, to sell real estate in the matter of the estate of Lydia A. Walters, deceased.

The road supervisors of Howe township reported the creek road, known as a state road, passing through that township for a distance of eleven miles, as being in a very bad condition. On motion the court gave them permission to spend a sum not to exceed one thousand dollars, for the purpose of putting the road in a good condition.

The stated case of W. H. Picken vs. the County Commissioners of Forest county, was decided in favor of the plaintiff.

The grand jury was called Monday, sworn and received the charge of the court, L. E. Fitzgerald being appointed foreman. The jury acted on three bills of indictment, two being found true bills and one not a true bill. They were discharged Tuesday afternoon after inspecting the county home and other county buildings.

The first case called before the grand jury was that of the Commonwealth vs. C. A. Larson, charge assault and battery, George Sibley prosecutor, which resulted in not a true bill and county to pay the costs.

The case of Commonwealth vs. Joseph Morasco of West Hickory, charged with selling elder on Sunday, was tried and the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty but pay the costs."

As this paper goes to press the Strain case is proceeding, a sufficient number of jurors being obtained Tuesday afternoon from the regular panel, thus obviating the necessity of calling takersmen. They are as follows:

E. A. Babcock, farmer, Kellestville, Kingsley township.

W. A. Ekins, farmer, Clarion, Barnett township.

Capt. J. J. Haight, oil producer, Cooper tract, Howe township.

F. A. Lundberg, farmer, Marienville, Jenks township.

George Wilson, butcher, Tionesta borough.

Andy Christenson, blacksmith, Kellestville, Kingsley township.

C. A. Carlson, blacksmith, Brookston, Howe township.

Howard Blum, laborer, Tionesta borough.

E. G. McCurdy, merchant, Lynch, Howe township.

Wm. Fitzgerald, farmer, Cooksburg, Barnett township.

D. W. Downey, foreman, Truemaus, Howe township.

K. L. Haugh, laborer, Nebraska, Green township.

As soon as this jury was secured all other jurors were excused from further service at this term. The Commonwealth is represented by District Attorney M. A. Carringer and J. S. Carmichael of Franklin, and the defendants have as their counsel, A. C. Brown of the local bar, and Breese & Breese of Oil City.

The history of this case is quite well remembered. On March 22 last George Strain and wife appeared in the afternoon at the boarding house conducted by J. L. Glenn, at Hunter's Camp, Harmony township, this county, and reported that Albert Allen, a teamster, was lying wounded and bleeding in the woods about a mile back near the Gorman hill road in the direction of Fagundus, having been cut by Mrs. Strain in defense of her honor or against assault from Allen. Mrs. Strain's clothing was somewhat torn and disarranged and she otherwise showed some effects of a struggle. A party accompanied Strain to scene of the tragedy. Allen was found about twenty rods from the Gorman hill road on a rim of a depression formed by an old conductor hole, lying in a pool of blood and still bleeding profusely. The snow for some feet around was trampled down and stained with blood, and blood also stained the snow on beyond the conductor hole down the hill several feet. The wounded man was in a semi-conscious state from shock and loss of blood. He was taken to the Glenn home and a doctor was summoned, but did not arrive until after the death of Allen at about 7:00 o'clock the same evening. A number of witnesses testified at the hearing that Allen was semi-conscious. G. L. Glenn testified that Allen said to him "George Strain cut me." Allen was wounded in two places: One cut was completely through the fleshy part of the thigh of the left leg and a serious knife cut in the back over the left shoulder which penetrated the lung.

The defendants were arraigned shortly after the Tuesday morning session convened. They both seemed somewhat more probable than on their last appearance, probably due to their confinement. Strain showed no sign of uneasiness, but Mrs. Strain appeared to be under some sort of a nervous strain. To the charge, which was read to them both plead not guilty, and to the question as to how they wished to be tried both answered, "By God and my countryman." The securing of a jury occupied the court's time until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The examination of the jurors disclosed that quite a large number on the list had formed and expressed opinions as to the merits of the case. Some were disqualified for this reason. Others professed conscientious scruples against capital punishment and were challenged for this cause.

At 2:30 District Attorney Carringer addressed the jury for the Commonwealth, forecasting the evidence upon which the prosecution will ask the conviction of the defendants of the crime of murder. His proposals followed substantially the facts above given relative to the history of the crime.

J. L. Glenn was the first witness called and was on the stand for several hours. His testimony was practically the same as that given at the preliminary hearing.

C. D. Miller, who went with Glenn to the scene of the crime, and William Sheekler, the teamster who hauled the wounded man to Glenn's house, gave the same testimony as at the hearing.

Mrs. J. L. Glenn was the last witness before adjournment. The defense objected to certain portions of her testimony and during the argument on the point the jury was withdrawn from the court room. It was proposed to prove by her a conversation she heard between the Strains in a bedroom in her house, which would substantiate the Commonwealth's claim that George Strain did the cutting. The defense contended that the declarations of a wife could not be used against her husband or vice versa. The court reserved its decision until this morning.

Society Witnesses Impressive Wedding.

The following account of the Wheeler-Hayes wedding, which notable event took place at Cleveland, Saturday evening, May 16, 1914, is taken from the Sunday edition of the Cleveland Plaindealer:

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place last evening at Epworth Memorial church, Prospect-av S. E. and E. 55th-st., when Miss Constance Irene Hayes, daughter of Mrs. Clara Blair Hayes of 85 Belmont-rd., was married to Rev. William Reginald Wheeler of Endeavor, Pa., Rev. Worth M. Tippy officiating.

Beauty and simplicity marked the ceremony, which was preceded by a short organ recital, offered by Mrs. Gertrude Davis. At 7:30 came the familiar strains of Wagner's Lohengrin's wedding march. Simultaneously down the aisle from the rear of the church appeared the bride party led by the five ushers, Mr. Clyde Wesley Hayes, brother of the bride, Mr. Lawrence Wheeler of Portland, Ore., Mr. Edmund Pendleton Livingston of Chicago, Mr. Henry Roe Cloud of New Haven, Ct., and Mr. Charles Anderson of Auburn, N. Y. Following them came the two bridesmaids, Miss Lillian Martin of Evanston, Ill., and Miss Katherine Armistage Potter of this city, who wore gowns of rose pink satin and pink tulle trimmed with ruffles of shaded pink chiffon.

Mrs. Nelson Platt Wheeler, Jr., of Endeavor, Pa., served as matron of honor and was beautifully gowned in pale pink satin with overdrapes of shadow lace. Miss Esther Emily Hayes, the sister of the bride who was the maid of honor, wore pale pink satin, veiled in pink maline and trimmed in shaded satin rose buds. The bride's attendants carried large bouquets of pink Killarney roses, tied with shaded pink maline.

The bride entered with her uncle, Mr. A. C. Blair, who gave her in marriage. Advancing to the altar which was decorated with palms and lighted by candles, they were met by the bridegroom and Mr. Nelson Platt Wheeler, Jr., who served his brother as best man. The bride was simply gowned in ivory panne satin trimmed with tulle and touches of real lace. The soft veil which dropped to the end of her train was caught at the crown with orange blossoms. The shower bouquet which she carried was of white roses and lilies of the valley and her only ornament was a platinum ring of sapphires and diamonds, the gift of the groom.

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. A. C. Blair, 6708 Carnegie-av, for the immediate family and intimate friends only. Among those receiving besides the bride party were: Mrs. Albert Colfax Blair, who wore white lace and turquoise chiffon and a corsage of sunburst roses; Mrs. Clara Blair Hayes, gowned in old blue shade of soft satin with an overdrapes of black lace with a corsage of Ward roses and forget-me-nots; the groom's mother, Mrs. Nelson Platt Wheeler, Sr., who wore a gown of white satin and white lace, and Mrs. E. A. Blair, grandmother of the bride who was gowned in grey crepe de chene and white lace and wore lavender sweet peas.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cannon of Montclair, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wheeler of Buffalo, N. Y., Miss Lilla C. Wheeler of Portville, N. Y., Mrs. F. Carl Smith of Washington, D. C., Dr. J. Q. Adams of Auburn, N. Y., Miss Lucile Clark of Yankton, S. Dak., Mrs. A. G.
